

Dear colleagues and friends,

These few words to remind you that there will be a great IMPAKT meeting in Brussels on 4-6 May 2017 in Brussels.

The IMPAKT Breast Cancer Conference brings together breast cancer researchers, clinicians and other medical professionals focused on breast cancer, to advance the implementation of new discoveries into clinical practice.

Established by BIG and ESMO in 2009, IMPAKT is really Europe's niche conference for translational research in breast cancer. The conference is particularly beneficial to young scientists and oncologists, who have the opportunity to interact with leaders in breast cancer research and treatment.

The IMPAKT conference is preceded by a Training Course specifically designed for researchers early in their careers that aims to provide them with the tools and basic notions to understand translational research.

The detailed program can be seen here

I really hope you will be able to attend and encourage young oncologists to attend as well.
